Over $44,500 Raised for Boone Animal Shelter

It was a Mardi Gras party to remember as Zionsville Animal Hospital hosted the second annual FURBALL! fundraiser for the Humane Society for Boone County (HSforBC), held at The Cardinal Room at Golf Club of Indiana February 21st.

The dinner party and auction was an advance sell out with over 350 partiers bidding on 80 plus donated items. The costume mask contest was a huge hit and later, everyone had a turn getting a mug-shot in the photo booth sponsored by Duke Realty – Anson. Vacuums and More owner Terrie England surprised the crowd with a pledge to donate a central vacuum system to be installed in the future building.

WTHR 13 broadcaster John Stehr kept everyone in laughs as the emcee and contest judge. Auctioneer Steve Cross of Lebanon kept the cash rolling in. Everyone left with empty pockets and smiles on their faces knowing that soon Boone County would start construction on a much needed animal rescue shelter.

Before the auction, HSforBC officers presented concept designs and floor plans for the shelter to be built fronting I-65 in Whitestown.

In its 8th year of operation, HSforBC operates as Boone County's primary rescue and adoption organization utilizing an all volunteer staff sheltering animals with in-home fosters. With this event, over $372,000 has been raised with a goal of $1.5 million of building and operating funds.
